

Are you interested in teaching and being a leader outside the classroom?
Do you believe teachers should have a stronger voice in education policy?
Would you like to be that voice?

The Rennie Center for Education Research and Policy invites you to apply to become a

Teaching Policy Fellow

-
- LEARN ABOUT INNOVATIVE IDEAS
 - DISCUSS TEACHING WITH PEERS
 - ADVOCATE FOR EFFECTIVE POLICY
-

Fellows will be selected for a two-year appointment, during which they will participate in monthly seminars and public events examining critical issues in the teaching profession. The focus of the work is on the second stage of the teaching career. Fellows will receive an annual honorarium of $1200 for participation.

Who's eligible?

- Current public school teachers in urban Greater Boston schools [\[1\]](#)
- Two to nine years classroom experience
- Demonstrated leadership and success with students

How do I apply?

- The application deadline is October 31, 2007
- Applications and additional information are available online at: www.renniecenter.org
- Questions: Please contact Celine Coggins at 617-354-0002 ext. 16 or ccoggins@renniecenter.org

Sponsored by The Boston Foundation

[\[1\]](#) Districts include: Boston, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Lynn, Malden, Quincy, Somerville, Revere